MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Premium Conservative Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The Investment objective of the Fund How the Fund achieves its investment objective

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve appreciation of assets in the short-term and mid-term horizon over the level of short-term interest rates, with high liquidity and low volatility of assets.

The Fund seeks to achieve its objective by investing primarily in a diversified portfolio (mainly by issuer) of floating and fixed Eurobonds, corporate bonds and bonds issued by banks. Most bonds in the portfolio are rated by Standard & Poor's or another reputable rating agency deemed to be of equivalent quality and the average rating varied between BBB and BBB-. The average modified duration of the Fund is to be less than 1.5 year.

In seeking to achieve the objective, the Fund uses a variety of techniques including fundamental analysis of issuers, analysis and prediction of macro-economic indicators, interest rates, foreign exchange rates, yield curve and analysis of regional political situations.

The Fund uses derivatives such as foreign exchange forwards and swaps (currency forwards and currency swaps) in order to hedge the currency exposure of the assets of the Fund in the range of 85–105%.

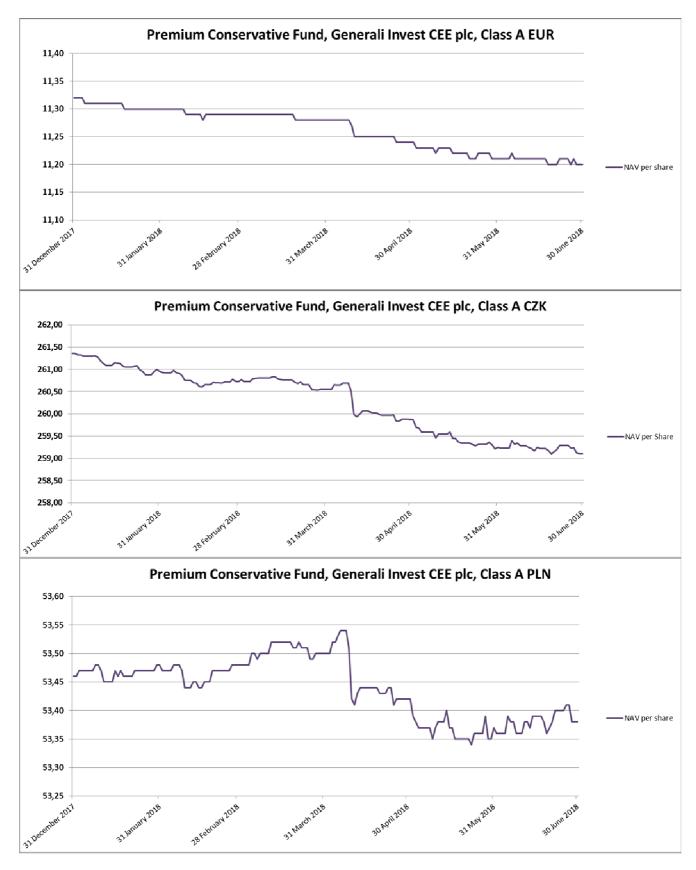

Bond market developments during 1H 2018 were adverse. Across all maturities, international core yields have trended strongly upwards in the first quarter. Both the euro area and US yields have risen by around 30 bps to 0.67% (the highest level since November 2015) and 2.70% (the highest level since April 2014), respectively. This movement occurred across all maturities. Diverging macroeconomic news flow and monetary policies triggered a further widening of the transatlantic yield spread in the second quarter - euro area core government bond yields dropped and peripheral bond spreads widened in the second quarter. In contrast, US yields shrugged off any disturbances and – supported by a healthy macroeconomic data flow and a slightly more hawkish Fed – rose across the curve.

Credit spreads across the regions significantly widened during this time, due to the sell-off in equity markets. The worst performing were Russian and Turkish assets. Russian corporates were under pressure in the second quarter, following a new round of sanctions imposed by the U.S. administration against several Russian oligarchs. Turkish corporate bonds have been suffering from worsening developments on both economic (depreciation of Turkish lira, rising inflation, increasing macroeconomic imbalances) and political (uncertainty before presidential election, Erdogan's effort to interfere with central bank policy) fronts, which was reflected by credit rating downgrades deeper into the junk category. Credit spreads of corporate bonds from other emerging market economies including Eastern Europe also widened as a combination of the Fed tightening and the US dollar appreciation led to significant outflows from emerging markets.

Similarly to previous years, we applied an active investment strategy. During the second quarter we were mainly on the buy side as our short duration and ongoing inflow resulted in free cash surplus. We focused on financials from the Eurozone. Contrary to this the fund reduced the portion of Russian and Turkish bonds. Despite the negative market environment the fund closed 1H 2018 with only a slight loss.

The future market outlook for the Fund

Looking forward, credit markets conditions are expected to remain adverse. The Fed is expected to keep tightening via both interest rates increase and balance sheet reduction to prevent the economy overheating. The rise in interest rates is expected to lead to further bear flattening of the U.S. dollar risk-free yield curve. The ECB is expected to cease its asset purchase programme by December 2018 and raise short-term rates in the third quarter of 2019. Despite the recent sharp moves, we see a further upside potential for corporate bond spreads in the near term, due to the negative political situation in Eurozone. In this environment, we will keep the short duration of the fund as a whole and we will focus on strong fundamentals for every single corporate bond.

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Corporate Bonds Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The investment objective of the Fund is to seek an attractive level of income and to achieve an appreciation of the value of the assets in the medium term time period above medium term European interest rates together with a medium degree of volatility.

The Fund achieves its objective by using both a variety of techniques including fundamental analysis of issuers, analysis and prediction of macro-economic indices, interest rates, foreign exchange rates, yield curve and analysis of regional political situation and by investing primarily in debt securities and debentures issued by corporations worldwide (including treasury paper and commercial paper) listed or traded on a Recognized Exchange in major global markets. The Fund also invests in debt securities issued by governments and their agencies, supranationals and local and public authorities Such instruments may be fixed or floating rate debt securities and mainly rated B- to BBB+ by Standard & Poor's or another reputable rating agency.

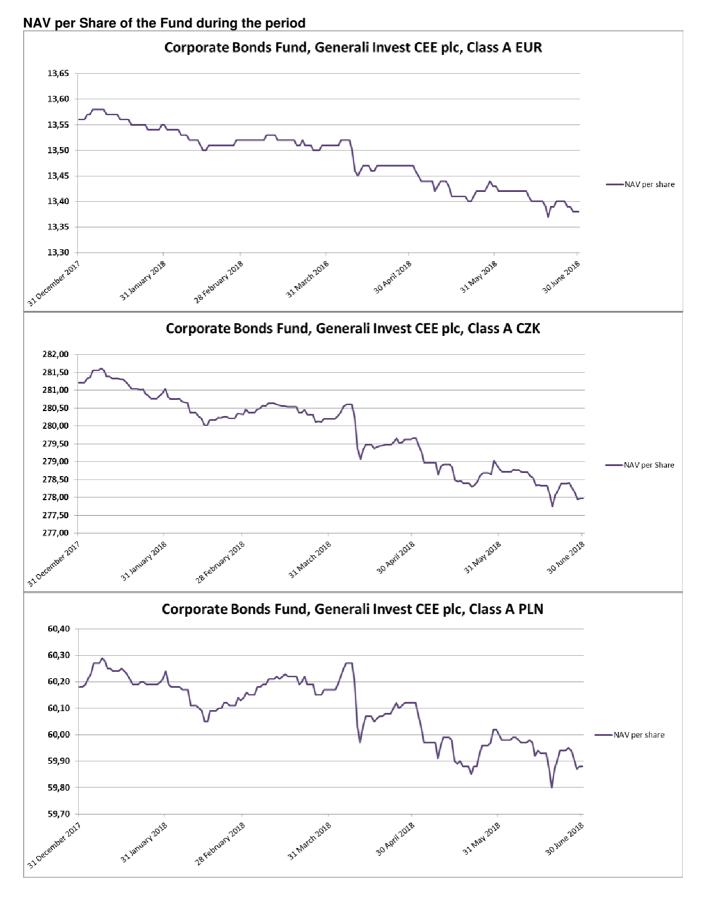

The derivatives used by the Fund include foreign exchange forwards and swaps (currency forwards and swaps) and they are used for hedging purposes. Details of the derivatives which may be used are set out in the derivatives risk management process filed with by the Central Bank of Ireland.

Credit market developments during 1H 2018 were adverse. The US dollar yield curve bear flattened as the Fed tightened its monetary policy, i.e. increased the Fed funds rates and also started to reduce its balance sheet. In addition, during February credit spreads across the regions significantly widened driven by the sell-off in equity markets. Russian corporate bonds, which amount to circa. 30% of the Fund's assets, did quite well over 1Q 2018 thanks to an economic recovery and strong crude oil prices until April, when the U.S. administration imposed new round of sanctions against several Russian oligarchs.

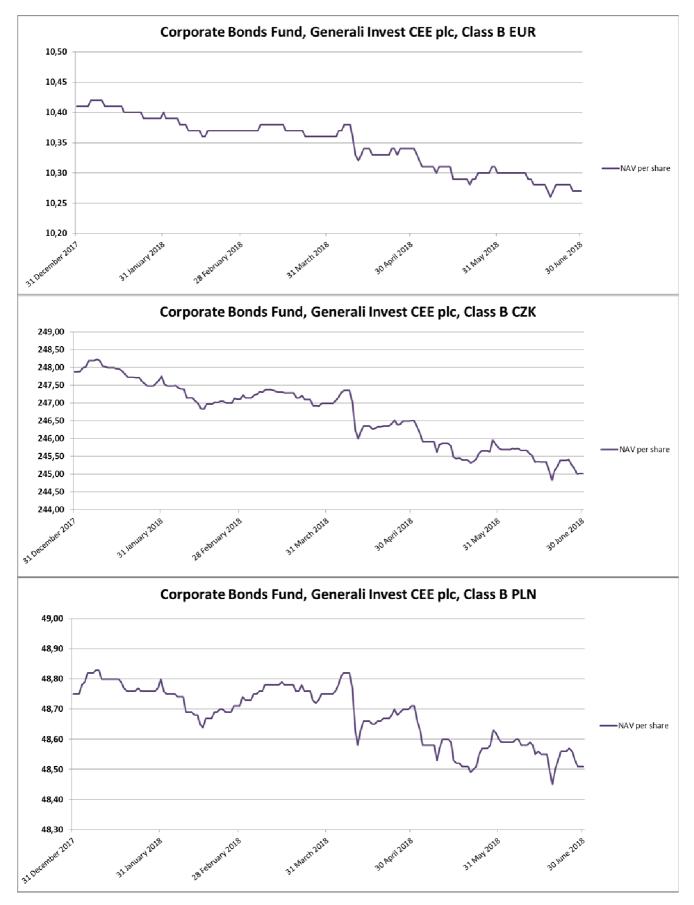

Turkish corporate bonds have been suffering from worsening developments on both economic (depreciation of Turkish lira, rising inflation, increasing macroeconomic imbalances), and political (uncertainty before presidential election, Erdogan's effort to interfere to central bank policy) fronts, which was reflected by credit rating downgrades deeper into junk category. Credit spreads of corporate bonds from other emerging market economies including Eastern Europe also widened as a combination of the Fed tightening and the US dollar appreciation which led to significant outflows from emerging markets.

Similarly to previous years, we applied an active investment strategy. With expectation of adverse markets conditions we reduced the Fund's average duration to an all-time low of 1.2 in January to decrease the Fund's sensitivity to both interest rates and credit risks. During the second quarter of the year we also reduced the allocation to Russian and Turkish bonds and broadened our regional diversification in favour of Central Eastern European countries, South Africa and China. From a credit ratings point of view, similarly to previous years, we preferred non-investment grade, which offer significant carry compared to investment grade bonds. Global speculative-grade default rate and the outlook are still significantly below long-term averages and the credit risk of the bonds in the portfolio is reduced by the low duration. Despite the adverse market developments the Fund closed 1H 2018 with only a slight loss.

Looking forward, credit market conditions are expected to remain adverse. The Fed is expected to keep tightening via both interest rates increase and balance sheet reduction to prevent the economy overheating. The rise in interest rates is expected to lead to further bear flattening of the U.S. dollar risk-free yield curve. The ECB is expected to cease its asset purchase programme by December 2018 and raise short-term rates in the third quarter of 2019.

Emerging market fundamentals are expected to worsen. Recent local currencies depreciation will lift inflation, which will prompt central banks to react and consequently to cool down economic growth. Moreover, imminent trade wars are expected to increase economic uncertainties among companies, which have already adversly affected economic growth, such as in the Eurozone. On the positive side corporate bonds across the regions are still mostly profitable from the recent global liquidity glut and from resilient economic fundamentals in some cases (Russia, Kazakhstan, CEE).

In this environment we intend to keep the Fund's average duration significantly below its long-term average. The investment strategy will be based mainly on a selection of fundamentally strong and liquid credit names. Similarly to past years we are also going to profit from the high carry of non-investment grade credits, where we will offset the higher fundamental risk by a shorter duration. Moreover, we are going to continue with a more active tactical strategy, i.e. we alter the Fund's composition and average duration depending on short-term market influences. From a regional point of view we are going to keep significant exposure to Russian corporates as geopolitical tensions between the US and Russia decreased after the Helsinki's summit and also the Russian economic fundamentals are favourable. On the other hand the portion of Turkish bonds will be further reduced in favour of other countries to enhance the diversification of the portfolio.

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Global Equity Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The Investment objective of the Fund How the fund achieves its investment objective

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve long term capital appreciation of assets through investment in a diversified portfolio of transferable securities. The Funds invests mainly in stocks of strong, world-renowned companies.

The main principles of the investment policy are:

1. Regarding regional and sectoral allocation we adopt particularly macro analysis including prediction of fiscal and monetary policies, interest rates and commodity prices;

Regarding individual stocks selection we adopt active portfolio management depending on fundamental analysis (the stability of financial ratios in time), horizontal analysis (the comparison within the scope of sector) and quantitative analysis (the analysis of statistical parameters alpha, beta and correlation);
 Currency risk hedging.

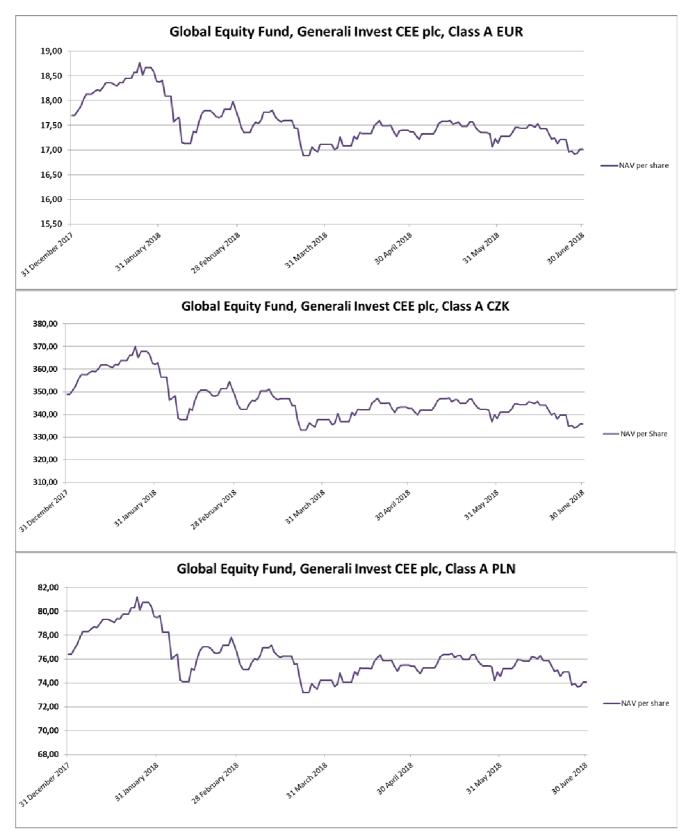

The Fund achieves its objective by investing primarily in the equity securities of companies which have in the opinion of the Investment Manager a significant position on the market and a comparative advantage over their competitors. The Fund invests in securities of companies which operate anywhere in the world provided that the securities held by the Fund are primarily listed or traded on a Recognized Exchange (excluding the Russian market). In seeking to achieve the objective of the Fund and in accordance with its investment restrictions and policy, the parameters and diversification of stock or portfolio composition are flexibly adjusted by the Investment Manager according to market developments in order to profit from the current development of individual markets. In seeking to achieve the Fund's investment objective, the Investment Manager considers the significant position in the market, comparative advantages over competitors and positive conclusions of vertical fundamental analysis (stability of financial indicators over time) and horizontal fundamental analysis (comparison with the sector) of particular stocks and quantitative analysis.

The derivatives used by the Fund include foreign exchange forwards and swaps (currency forwards and currency swaps) and are used for hedging purposes in the range of 85–105%. Details of the derivatives which may be used are set out in the derivatives risk management process filed with the Central Bank. The Fund reinvests all income and gains and it does not intend to declare dividends

The picture for global equities in 1H 2018 has marked a significant change vs. 2017: stocks have experienced a major correction in February, when an extended selloff hit risky assets in both developed and emerging regions, spreading across all industry groups, including the traditionally defensive ones. After this experience, equities around the world have seen switching between renewed euphoria and risk-off mode. As of the end of 1H 2018, sharp losses in several regions and heavy outflows from Emerging Markets (-6.8%) were partly offset by selected resilient asset groups (e.g. US Consumer Discretionary and IT shares, adding 10.8% and 10.2% respectively), while implied volatility ended the year higher (+5% for US equities and +3% for European ones). The unexpected factors which have hit the market include political uncertainties in the Eurozone peripheral countries, a stronger USD impact on Emerging Markets, US tariffs fostering trade war fears and sanctions on Russia.

The Fund closed 1H 2018 with a slight loss which was mainly driven by the underperformance of European equities, despite a higher upside potential than US peers, which have been trading at expensive valuations. In order not to bear excessive risks, the Fund has significantly reduced exposure to Russia (completely exited) and Turkey (left exposure less than 1% NAV). The Fund has undergone several structural changes in 2018: a new currency hedging strategy, which reduced issues related to currency mismatch, was put in place; the investable universe was widened (the Fund can now directly invest in securities denominated in HUF, GBP, RON, TRY and RUB); following a prospectus change the limit on ETF investments was removed, allowing a more intense use of the latter instruments when needed, as an effective way to promptly take diversified exposure into promising regions selected with a top-down approach. At the same time, in line with the basic principles of the investment policy, active stock picking continued to play a determinant role, and the Fund was able to take profits from several fundamentals-driven positive stock re-ratings. The Fund adopted and maintains a tactical underweight stance (currently within the 4-5% range).

Looking forward, most of the short-term uncertainties on monetary policy in the Eurozone and US have been cleared out (with monetary policy tightening by both institutions during 2H 2018E - 1H 2019E priced in by the market). US monetary policy and a stronger USD are expected to justify continued higher risk premia for Emerging Markets risky assets. Among these, Russian assets suffer from the additional burden of sanctions, limiting ease of access to the market, whereas CEE equities appear oversold in proportion to their riskiness and may be attractive "buy" opportunities. In the Eurozone, the stabilization of the political outlook may fail to provide long-lasting relief, especially while EU members lack a common ground to promptly react to the current headwinds (Brexit, management of migration flows), and investors are believed to maintain a cautious stance especially with a lack of macro data surprises. Asian markets discount mixed macro data. Export-oriented economies (e.g. Japan) or industries (e.g. European automakers) are expected to face added volatility connected to trade war fears. Demand-supply balance should continue to be a headwind for several commodities (oil and copper especially). In such a challenging environment, and as market operators start to question themselves about the global economic growth cycle (some are starting to price in a recession in 2020E), we maintain a cautious approach to equities, preferring selected stocks with solid fundamentals and high diversification at industry and regional level. We may consider increasing the overall tactical underweight to 10% NAV. Investment decisions will continue to be driven by key parameters including the yield on expected earnings, as well as the dividend yield. At the same time we will continue to pursue an active currency hedging policy.

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 New Economies Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve long-term capital appreciation through investment in a diversified portfolio of transferable securities.

The Fund seeks to achieve its objective by investing primarily in the equity securities of companies operating in emerging economies worldwide, in particular the emerging economies of Asia (except Japan), Latin America, South Africa and Central and Eastern Europe. As emerging market countries we consider mainly countries included in the MSCI Emerging Markets Index.

The key investment criteria are a company's financial strength, competitiveness, profitability, growth prospects and quality of management. The primary approach is to look for growth at a reasonable price. The allocation is based on fundamental research that seeks out sectors and regions with above-average long-term growth. The Fund has a quality bias.

The derivatives used by the Fund include foreign exchange forwards and swaps (currency forwards and currency swaps) and are used for hedging purposes in the range of 85–105%. Details of the derivatives which may be used are set out in the derivatives risk management process filed with the Central Bank of Ireland. The Fund reinvests all income and gains and it is not intended to declare dividends.

The MSCI Emerging Markets Index (USD) fell by 7.3% in the first half of the year. Active country allocation in the Fund had a negative impact compared to the index and stock selection was neutral. The overweight to India which outperformed added value. This was offset by underweights to Russia which outperformed, as well as the overweighting to both Korea and Brazil which underperformed.

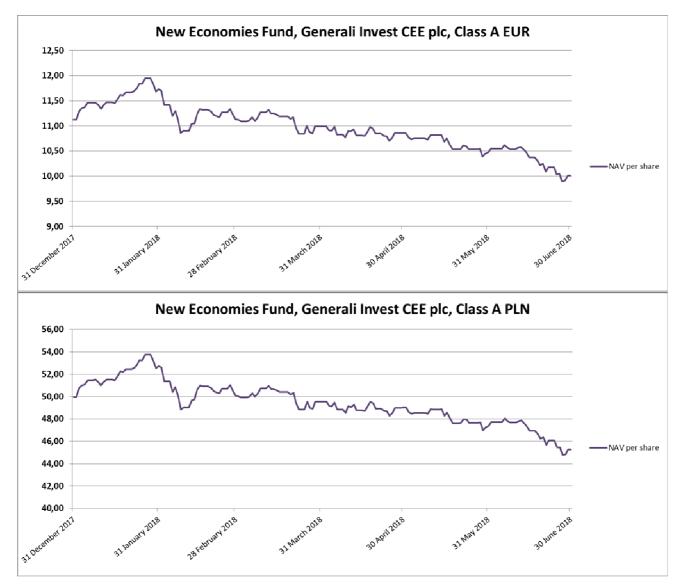

The first half of 2018 was a challenging time for Emerging Markets. Since the beginning of the year, the US dollar has strengthened, interest rates are rising faster than anticipated, and global trade hostilities have intensified. In the second quarter currency turbulences and election cycles destabilized investor sentiment.

The biggest EM economy China posted a negative return and underperformed with ongoing signs of slowing momentum in domestic growth exacerbated by concern that trade tensions could weigh on global demand. Trade uncertainty also contributed to weakness in a number of other Asian emerging markets, including South Korea and Thailand, which was the weakest country. Countries with greater exposure to global liquidity tightening also came under pressure. For example Turkey, which has a large current account deficit, was the worst performing country in the MSCI EM index (in USD terms). Brazil also posted a negative return and underperformed, in part due to currency weakness, and in part due to political uncertainty. By contrast, Mexico posted a strong gain as the market rebounded ahead of the presidential elections.

The Fund has undergone several changes in 2018. In line with the investment policy we increased our position in China through technology giants like Tencent, Baidu and Alibaba. For these companies it is typically strong growth which reflects their dominant local franchises (near monopolies in some cases), supported by the rapid underlying increase in domestic consumption in China and the simultaneous shift of business into these new online operations in recent years. Contrary to that we sold part of the Russian commodity-oriented companies with the aim of reducing exposure in Russia, as another round of US sanctions is possible.

The future market outlook for the Fund

Emerging markets earnings growth expectations for 2018 remain steady at 18% and estimates for 2019 were revised slightly higher to 11%. Dividend yields and free cash flow yields remain higher in emerging markets compared to developed markets, while developed markets return on equity has moved slightly higher than emerging markets, at 12.3% versus 12.2%. Emerging markets are also expected to grow more than twice as fast as developed markets in 2018 and 2019 at 5% versus 2.3%, respectively.

Although there is the other possibility of further consolidation in the near term, we believe that emerging market equity valuations currently provide an attractive entry point and a good cushion against any further volatility, with emerging market fundamentals intact in the medium term.

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Oil and Energy Industry Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The Investment objective of the Fund How the Fund achieves its investment objective

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve long-term capital appreciation through investment in a diversified portfolio of transferable securities.

The Fund invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of shares and/or transferable securities issued by companies active in the oil and energy sector. This includes companies mainly involved in the following industries: oil & gas (exploration, production, marketing, refining and/or transportation of oil and gas products); energy equipment & services (construction or provision of oil rigs, drilling equipment and other energy related service and equipment) and electric-integrated industry (generates, distributes and trades electricity to municipal, industrial and residential customers).

The Fund's regional focus is primarily in North America and Western Europe. An additional part of the portfolio is made up of transferable securities issued in emerging market countries. All these securities are listed and traded on Recognized Exchanges. In seeking to achieve its investment objective, the Fund uses supplementary criteria such as, the strength of position on the market, comparative advantages over competitors and positive conclusions of vertical fundamental analysis (stability of financial indicators in time) and horizontal fundamental analysis (comparison with the sector) of particular stocks. The Fund has a quality bias.

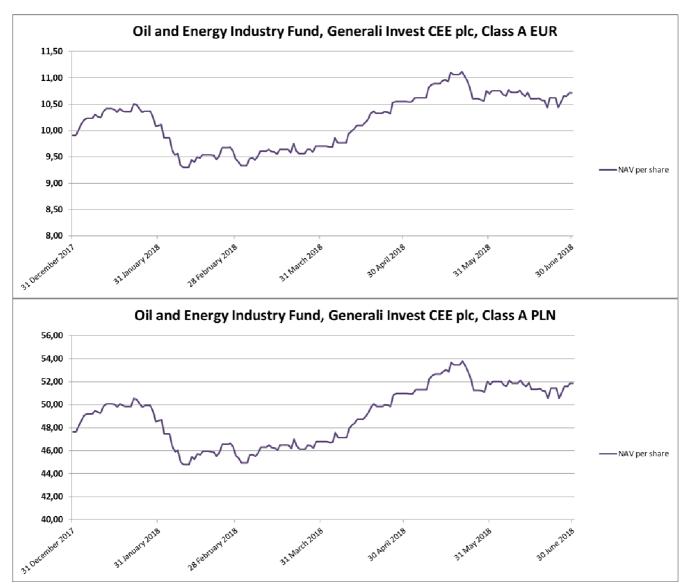

The derivatives used by the Fund include foreign exchange forwards and swaps (currency forwards and currency swaps) and are used for hedging purposes in the range of 85–105%. Details of the derivatives which may be used are set out in the derivatives risk management process filed with the Central Bank of Ireland. The Fund reinvests all income and gains and it is not intended to declare dividends.

For the six months ending June 30, 2018, the energy sector, as measured by the S&P 500 Energy Index, generated a return of 5.3%. The Generali Oil and Energy Industry Fund did better, outperforming the Index in the first half 2018.

In the first quarter the Fund fell sharply as the weak earnings season and a broader market sell-off hit negatively energy stocks as a whole. Contrary in Q2 the Energy was a leading sector with a 12.7% advance, its best since Q4 2011. Bolstering the gain was a 14% increase in WTI crude oil, its fourth consecutive quarterly gain. The supply glut has mostly abated and OPEC recently agreed to relax their self-imposed production caps, but supply disruptions from Iran, Venezuela, and Libya are keeping things interesting. Oil helped drive positive performance for all sub-sectors within the industry. Among the winning sectors were oil & gas drilling and oil & gas exploration & production. Not far behind were oil & gas refining & marketing and integrated oil & gas the largest subindustry group.

The Fund entered 2018 strongly overweight in its equity allocation (97% of the NAV) and from a sector point of view the Fund was overweight in refineries, because the environment was clearly positive for US refineries which benefited from the spread between WTI and BRENT. WTI is cheaper than Brent and this is a strong advantage for US refineries compared to European peers. This strategy was clearly successful. At the end of May we sold roughly 8% of our investments that focused on oil price sensitive equities with the aim of taking profits and preserving the Fund's performance.

The future market outlook for the Fund

Global demand for oil is likely to moderate this year, as the price of crude nears $80 a barrel and many key importing nations no longer offer consumers generous fuel subsidies. IEA cut its forecast for global demand growth to 1.4 million barrels per day for 2018, from a previous estimate of 1.5 million bpd. The oil price has risen 51 percent in the last year, driven by coordinated supply cuts and, this month, by concerns over Iranian supply after the United States said it would re-impose sanctions on Tehran over its nuclear activities.

Outlook for the integrated oil and gas business is stable over the next 12–18 months. Earnings will rise about 5% even as conditions remain strained. The outlook for drilling and oil field services companies is positive, with earnings likely to rise 10-12% as upstream capital spending and the global rig count continues to increase.

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Commodity Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The investment objective of the Fund How the Fund achieves its investment objective

The aim of the Fund is to achieve long term capital appreciation of assets and it is intended for all investors who want to increase the diversification of their portfolios of equity and bond funds with another asset class such as commodities which are otherwise more difficult to access for ordinary investors. The Fund invests primarily in active, agricultural and industrial commodities without trading futures or taking physical delivery of assets.

The Fund achieves its objective by investing primarily in exchange traded funds (also in open-ended collective investment schemes with a similar investment policy to the Fund), debt securities such as exchange traded commodities (especially exchange traded notes in general) and index certificates which gain exposure to the commodity indices, worldwide listed or traded on a Recognised Exchange (excluding any Russian markets). The Fund follows a so-called "Core Satellite" strategy. The Fund is solely invested in commodities and absolutely no exposure is taken to mining companies or other companies.

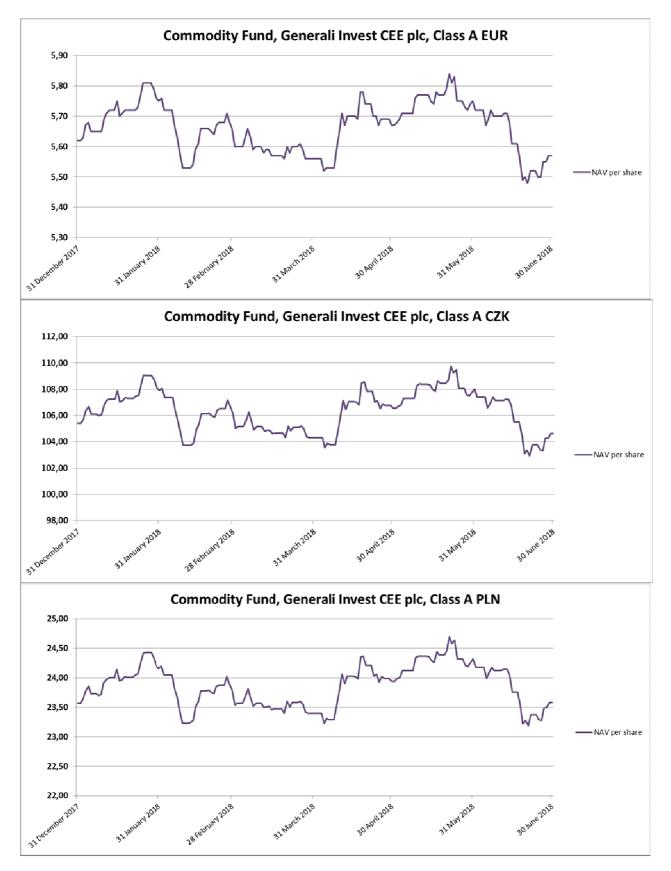

The derivatives used by the Fund include foreign exchange forwards and swaps (currency forwards and swaps) and they are used for FX-hedging purposes in the range of 85–105%. Details of the derivatives which may be used are set out in the derivatives risk management process filed with the Central Bank of Ireland. The Fund reinvests all income and gains and it is not intended to declare dividends.

The commodity sector entered the year on a positive note and correlated tightly with the equity markets. Both industrial as well as precious metals lagged at the beginning of 2018 and the energy sub-index showed signs of elevated volatility driven by natural gas due to the US winter storms which sparked record natural gas demand. It was mainly the crude oil prices' 3 year-high at the end of January pushing commodity indices to positive territory. However following a global sell-off across asset classes at the beginning of February, prices gave up all the gains. Moreover, with US production rising much faster than expected, they were not able to recover until the middle of March despite the fact that the overall picture for commodities was positive as such, supported by solid and synchronized global growth and rising inflation expectations. Reflecting that outlook, the Fund was kept fully invested, but kept its long-term underweight exposure to crude oil in favor of other commodities.

Broad commodity indices strengthened between the end of March and May, and more-or-less supported by all commodity sub-indices, they were hovering above zero year-to-date. However commodities fell in June amid trade war tensions and a stronger US dollar, and crude oil prices rallied which touched new best levels just subdued the decline. Crude oil rallied following OPEC's announcement of a production increase as investors had primarily priced in an even larger number. On the other hand the reaction seemed rather exaggerated as the fundamentals do not seem to be sustainable at such price levels.

The total commodity exposure was not a matter of big changes across the portfolio. As the FX-risk position is fully hedged, the rather volatile EUR/USD FX-rate changes had no effect on the performance, but as a side effect, technical sales prevailed due to the appreciating USD.

The future market outlook for the Fund

The year 2018 differs significantly from the previous year when many commodities reached a cyclical bottom. A rise in structural changes is visible and we can see much more upside risks for prices than in the last few years due to the ongoing solid global economic recovery. Global oil markets are experiencing a long-awaited rebalancing story, amid higher volatility, which reflects not only the more intense geopolitical environment, but also concerns about global trade tensions. Demand keeps increasing for most commodities everywhere: in the US, Europe as well as in emerging markets, especially in China. Also for agricultural commodities the environment is more favorable as recent pretty robust global grain inventories compressed prices which should lead into fewer planted areas.

If additional tariffs or sanctions are implemented, they could change the outlook for commodity prices in the short-term. However, their effect would likely unwind over the medium-term, as – as always – producers and consumers will find new distribution channels, export markets or sources of financing.

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Emerging Europe Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The Investment objective of the Fund How the fund achieves its investment objective

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve long term capital appreciation of assets through exposure to the emerging equity markets of the Central, Eastern and South Eastern European region and the Commonwealth of Independent States, including the Czech Republic, the Slovak Republic, Russia, Poland, Hungary, Romania, Slovenia, Croatia, Bulgaria, Serbia, Turkey, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Ukraine, Belorussia and Kazakhstan which are not as advanced as markets of developed economies but which are experiencing growth often fueled by growth in domestic consumption and investment and which should gradually converge with those of the more developed economies in time.

The Fund achieves its investment objective by employing a bottom-up approach to investing and considering factors such as a company's position on its chosen market, its comparative advantages over competitors, the implications of any vertical fundamental analysis (stability of the company's financial indicators over time) and any horizontal fundamental analysis (comparison with other companies in the sector) of a target stock.

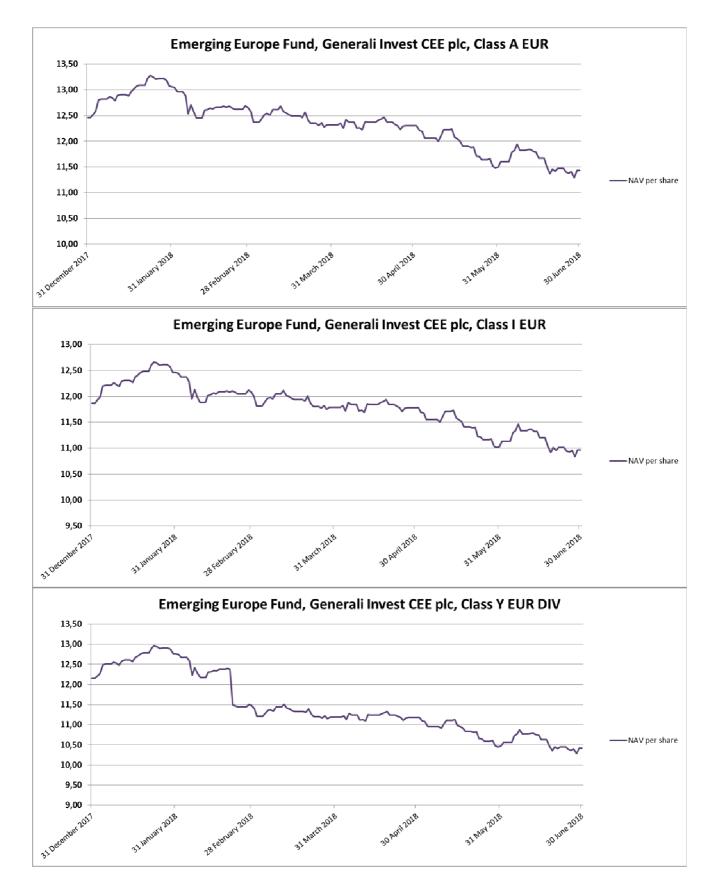

The derivatives used by the Fund may include foreign exchange forwards and swaps and they may be used for hedging purposes, but the FX currency exposure has remained fully open.

The year-to-date performance of CEE indices lagged the USD-denominated broad global MSCI Emerging Markets index and in euro-terms the picture is even worse as dollar gains knocked CEE currencies / surprisingly despite ongoing strong macroeconomic growth in the second quarter of the year. Especially if compared with a much better development of equity indices across Western Europe since the beginning of April. Changes in risk-free yields proved to have a capacity to be a pretty disturbing factor for emerging markets including the CEE/SEE region and Turkey amid concerns over a looming global trade war. Among others, the very important negative signal for investors was definitely a change in monetary policy expectations across the CEE region for 2018 and 2019 in January and February as the acceleration in inflation expectations did not materialize in the end and central bankers shifted to a more dovish monetary policy stance, harming mainly (Polish) financials.

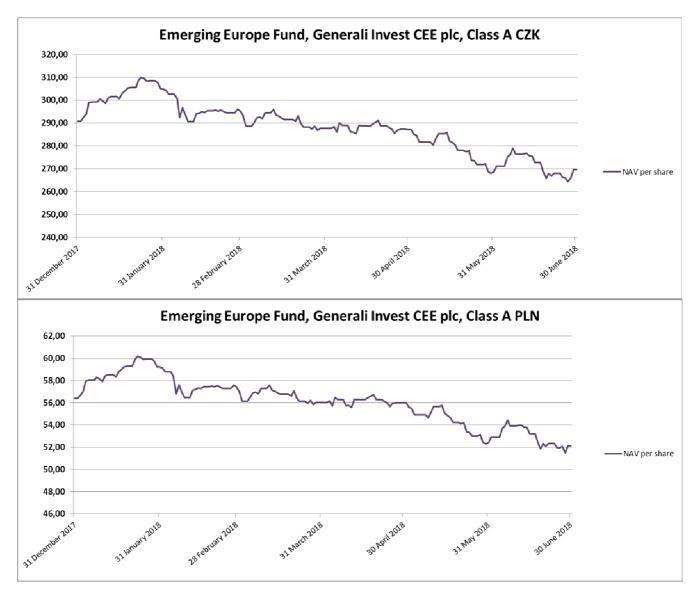

Very poor performance of heavily weighted Polish stocks pushed the composite CECE EUR index down significantly since January and despite some material year-to-date outperformance of Czech, Romanian and Russian equities, the Polish and Hungarian blue chips pushed the Fund significantly into the red despite the fact that the Fund managed to deliver heavy outperformance in the first half of the year in comparison with the CECE EUR index.

The investment activity was rather subdued and focused mainly on some reshuffle from winners to underperforming Polish blue-chips that now look much more attractive than they were at the very end of 2017. Also cyclical rotation across the portfolio continued. The Fund remains fully invested and the FX exposure is kept fully unhedged against the euro across all underlying currencies.

The future market outlook for the Fund

In the largest central and eastern European countries, GDP growth continued a sound recovery amid a pretty favorable outlook. The Fund's investment universe is heavily dependent on the situation in Western Europe, which still seems promising for many reasons, although the environment is definitely not as positive as at the year-end. We are less cautious on Poland than before as the WIG index multiples have finally normalized in recent months and should finally bottom out. Nevertheless some concerns still remain and have to be reflected in the risk premia and valuation. Political risk aside, the region is projected to regain momentum towards a healthy economic growth (case by case) on the back of improving domestic demand and continued accommodative monetary policy.

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Emerging Europe Bond Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The Fund aims to grow its assets in the long term through exposure to the debt instruments of Emerging Markets mainly of the Central, Eastern and South Eastern European region and the Commonwealth of Independent States. To achieve its objective the Fund invests in bonds such as Eurobonds, corporate bonds, international institution bonds, bonds of governments, government agencies and bonds issued by banks or other corporations or governments of countries that are members of the OECD or Emerging Markets countries (including the Commonwealth of Independent States) or their agencies or associated entities and other transferable debt instruments.

The Fund uses a limited number of simple derivative instruments such as swaps and forwards for non-complex efficient portfolio management and hedging. The Investment Manager has full discretion in selecting the Fund's assets. The Fund has particular target in relation to market sectors of the Central, Eastern and South Eastern Europe and the Commonwealth of Independent States. The Fund achieves its investment objective by employing a top-down approach to investing. Analysis of macroeconomic environment in respective countries - business cycle position, price growth and its structure, external and internal imbalances – is the corner stone of the investment process. The evaluation of global risk appetite is also an important part in the decision-making process.

The very negative sentiment on Emerging Europe government bond ("GB") markets prevailed during H1 2018. Yields tended to increase during the whole period and local FX weakened. Development of external environment was the most important factor of this development. Tightening of monetary policy in the U.S., USD strengthening, trade war concerns, political tension in Italy led to underperformance of risky assets and huge outflow from emerging market assets. Those countries with weak fundamentals and governance (like Turkey) were hit badly. CEE currencies underperformed despite very sound growth and absence of imbalances probably because of worries that US tariffs will indirectly hamper car sector dependent CEE economies. Weaker FX and the need to tighten monetary conditions in overheated CEE countries led to earlier hikes in the Czech Republic and Romania and change in rhetoric in Hungary.

In the first half of this year trade activity was relatively subdued in the Generali Emerging Europe Bond Fund. Regarding duration - we let the duration decrease below 3.7 as active purchases did not compensate for time decay. We increased the duration of HGB bonds by 0.6Y to 4.2. Regarding CEE FX-denomination, the largest positions are in the PLN followed by the RON and the HUF. EUR denominated holdings are typically Eurobonds of the CEE countries and Turkey and Russia. Our FX exposure to local currencies is usually similar to the market value of values of the bonds with exception of RON where we hedge part of the ROMGB holdings. At the end of May and in June, we invested a significant client's inflow without changing significantly the fund's structure.

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Premium Balanced Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The Investment objective of the Fund How the Fund achieves its investment objective

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve long-term capital appreciation and to reduce the portfolio's overall volatility through investment in a diversified and actively managed portfolio of transferable securities.

The main principles of the investment policy are:

In seeking to achieve the Fund's objective, the asset allocation, parameters and composition of the portfolio may be adjusted (within investment limits) by the Investment Manager in order to profit from the development of individual markets. The Investment Manager will use a variety of techniques including fundamental analysis of issuers, analysis and prediction of the macro-economic indices, interest rates, commodity prices, foreign exchange rates, yield curve and analysis of regional political situation. In addition as regards fixed income securities the decision making process of the Investment Manager is particularly focused on the price, yield to maturity, rating, fundamentals of the issuer, the country and other parameters of securities such as maturity and whether the security is fixed or floating rate etc. In the final step of its analysis, the Investment Manager checks the appropriateness of the proposed investments, e.g. if the bond is listed on a Recognized Exchange. As regards equities, the Investment Manager will employ mainly a bottom-up approach to investing, and will typically consider factors such as a company's position on its chosen market, its comparative advantages over competitors, the implications of any vertical fundamental analysis (stability of the company's financial indicators over time) and any horizontal fundamental analysis (comparison with other companies in the sector) of particular stocks.

The target/neutral allocation consists of:

1/ Equities and equity related securities at between 35 and 40% NAV;

2/ Bonds at between 55 and 60% NAV, with regional allocation in EE and CIS, thereof 1/2 corporate and 1/2 government and quasi-sovereign bonds.

The derivatives used by the Fund include foreign exchange forwards and swaps (currency forwards and currency swaps) and are used for hedging purposes in the range of 85–105%. Details of the derivatives which may be used are set out in the derivatives risk management process filed with the Central Bank of Ireland. The Fund reinvests all income and gains and it is not intended to declare dividends.

Equity markets across the regions started the year on a positive note, driven by synchronised global economic growth and recent fiscal impulse in the US. In February global risky assets experienced a major correction triggered by a resurgence of inflation in the US, raising the possibility that the central banks would tighten policy more aggressively than what had been expected. After this experience, equities around the world have seen alternation between renewed euphoria and risk-off mode. Since April global equity markets have started to diverge. On one hand the US equity markets (particularly IT and consumer discretionary sectors) have renewed a growing trend driven by strong economy and earnings growth, that exceeded 20% y-o-y on average. On the other hand emerging markets equities kept their downtrend, suffering from the hawkish Fed and a trade war initiated by the US administration. Also European equity markets underperformed significantly as economic growth surprised negatively and political uncertainties increased.

Credit market developments during 1H 2018 were adverse. The US dollar yield curve bear flattened as the Fed tightened its monetary policy, i.e. increased the Fed funds rates and also started to reduce its balance sheet. In addition, during February credit spreads across the regions significantly widened driven by the sell-off in equity markets. Russian corporate bonds, which amount to cca 30% of the Fund's assets, did quite well over 1Q 2018 thanks to an economic recovery and strong crude oil prices until April, when the U.S. administration imposed a new round of sanctions against several Russian oligarchs.

Turkish corporate bonds have been suffering from worsening development on both economic (depreciation of Turkish lira, rising inflation, increasing macroeconomic imbalances), and political (uncertainty before presidential election, Erdogan's effort to interfere with central bank policy) fronts, which was reflected by credit rating downgrades deeper into junk category. Credit spreads of corporate bonds from other emerging market economies including Eastern Europe also widened as a combination of the Fed's tightening and the US dollar appreciation led to significant outflow from emerging markets.

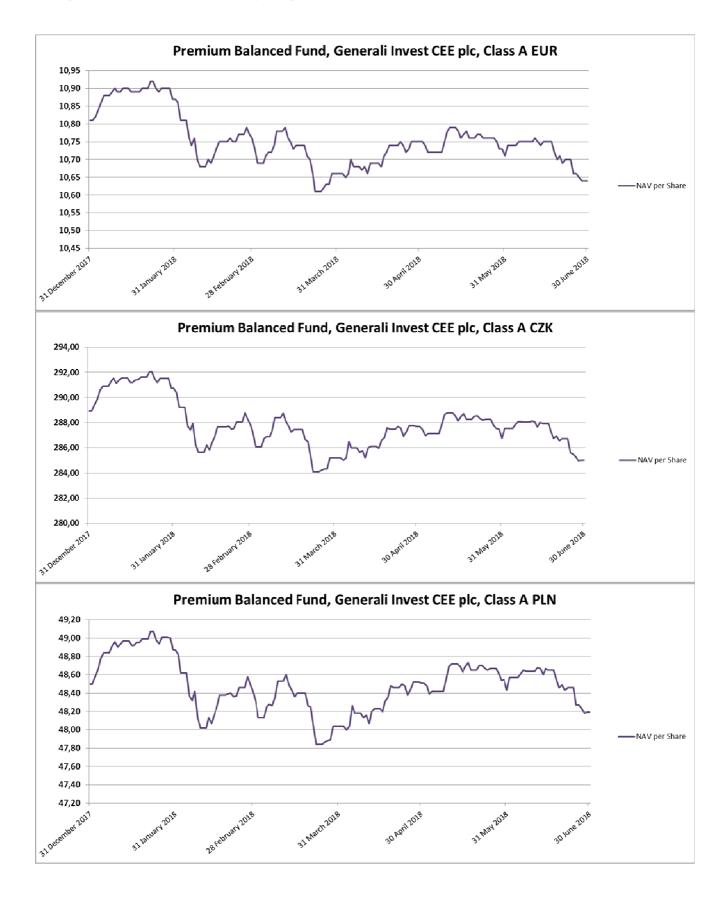

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Premium Balanced Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The Fund performed relatively well during the 1H 2018, posting only a small loss. Similarly to previous years, we have applied an active investment strategy across asset classes. Equity exposure moved in a range of 24%–29% NAV, with an underweight position in sectors which tend to provide weak performance in period of interest rate hikes, namely utilities, REITs and consumer non-cyclicals. With regards to individual stock selection, we preferred stocks the brand value of which grows at an above-average pace and/or with relatively low valuation in comparison to sector peers. The fixed income part of the Fund portfolio was managed with the same approach as the Corporate Bond Fund, i.e. with emphasis on high yield, shorter duration emerging markets corporate and financial bonds. The individual bond selections were based mainly on fundamental analysis, with top-down-based market timing.

The future market outlook for the Fund

We expect global economic growth to remain solid, particularly in the US, where recent fiscal impulse prolonged the economic cycle. The Fed is expected to keep tightening via both interest rates increase and balance sheet reduction to prevent an economic overheating. The rise in interest rates is expected to lead to further bear flattening of the U.S. dollar risk-free yield curve. The US equity market still profits from tax reform, resulting in strong earnings growth. The Eurozone economy is experiencing an economic slowdown triggered by a combination of a trade war and political uncertainties. Therefore equity markets performance has been weak. On the positive side market multiples are relatively low compared to the US. The ECB is expected to cease its asset purchase programme by December 2018 and raise short-term rates in the third quarter of 2019.

Emerging market fundamentals are expected to worsen. Recent local currency depreciation will lift inflation, which will prompt some central banks to react and consequently to cool down economic growth. Moreover, imminent trade wars are expected to increase economic uncertainties among companies, which already have an adverse effect on economic growth in some cases, similarly to the Eurozone. Equity market multiples significantly declined, which provides room for selective stock picking.

Global fixed-income markets conditions are expected to remain the same mostly affected by the Fed's policy tightening. On the positive side corporate bonds across the regions are still mostly profiting from low default rates and also from resilient economic fundamentals in some cases (Russia, Kazakhstan, CEE). In this environment we are going to keep the bonds' average duration below the long-term average. The investment strategy for the fixed-income segment will be based mainly on a selection of fundamentally strong and liquid credit names. Similarly to past years we are also going to profit from the high carry of non-investment grade credits, where higher fundamental risk will be offset by a shorter duration.

With regards to the equity part of the portfolio we are going to keep a flexible tactical strategy with an aim of profiting from lower correlation among individual regions, sectors and stocks. From a regional perspective we basically continue to prefer developed markets over emerging markets. With regards to individual stock selection, we continue overweight "value stocks" i.e. stocks with a relatively low valuation (based on P/E, P/CF etc.) in comparison to sector peers.

In seeking to achieve the Fund's objective, the asset allocation, parameters and composition of the portfolio may be adjusted (within investment limits) by the Investment Manager in order to profit from the development of individual markets. The Investment Manager will use a variety of techniques including fundamental analysis of issuers, analysis and prediction of macro-economic indices, interest rates, commodity prices, foreign exchange rates, yield curve and analysis of the regional political situation. In addition as regards fixed income securities the decision making process of the Investment Manager is particularly focused on the price, yield to maturity, rating, fundamentals of the issuer, the country and other parameters of securities such as maturity and whether the security is fixed or floating rate etc. In the final step of its analysis, the Investment Manager checks the appropriateness of the proposed investments, e.g. if the bond is listed on a Recognized Exchange. As regards equities, the Investment Manager will employ mainly a bottom-up approach to investing, and will typically consider factors such as a company's position on its chosen market, its comparative advantages over competitors, the implications of any vertical fundamental analysis (stability of the company's financial indicators over time) and any horizontal fundamental analysis (comparison with other companies in the sector) of particular stocks.

The target/neutral allocation consists of:

1/ Equities and equity related securities at between 60 and 65% NAV;

2/ Bonds at between 30 and 35% NAV, with regional allocation in EE and CIS, thereof 1/2 corporates and 1/2 government and quasi-sovereign bonds.

The derivatives used by the Fund include foreign exchange forwards and swaps (currency forwards and currency swaps) and are used for hedging purposes in the range of 85–105%. Details of the derivatives which may be used are set out in the derivatives risk management process filed with the Central Bank of Ireland. The Fund reinvests all income and gains and it is not intended to declare dividends.

Equity markets across the regions started the year on a positive note, driven by synchronized global economic growth and recent fiscal impulse in the US. In February global risky assets experienced a major correction triggered by a resurgence of inflation in the US, raising the possibility that the central banks would tighten policy more aggressively than what had been expected. After this experience, equities around the world have seen alternation between renewed euphoria and risk-off mode. Since April global equity markets have started to diverge. On one hand the US equity markets (particularly IT and consumer discretionary sectors) have renewed a growing trend driven by strong economy and earnings growth, that exceeded 20% y-o-y on average. On the other hand emerging markets equities kept their downtrend, suffering from a hawkish Fed and a trade war initiated by the US administration. Also European equity markets underperformed significantly as economic growth surprised negatively and political uncertainties increased.

Credit market developments during 1H 2018 were adverse. The US dollar yield curve bear flattened as the Fed tightened its monetary policy, i.e. increased the Fed funds rates and also started to reduce its balance sheet. In addition, during February credit spreads across the regions significantly widened driven by a sell-off in equity markets. Russian corporate bonds, which amount to circa 30% of the Fund's assets, did quite well over 1Q 2018 thanks to an economic recovery and strong crude oil prices until April, when the U.S. administration imposed a new round of sanctions against several Russian oligarchs.

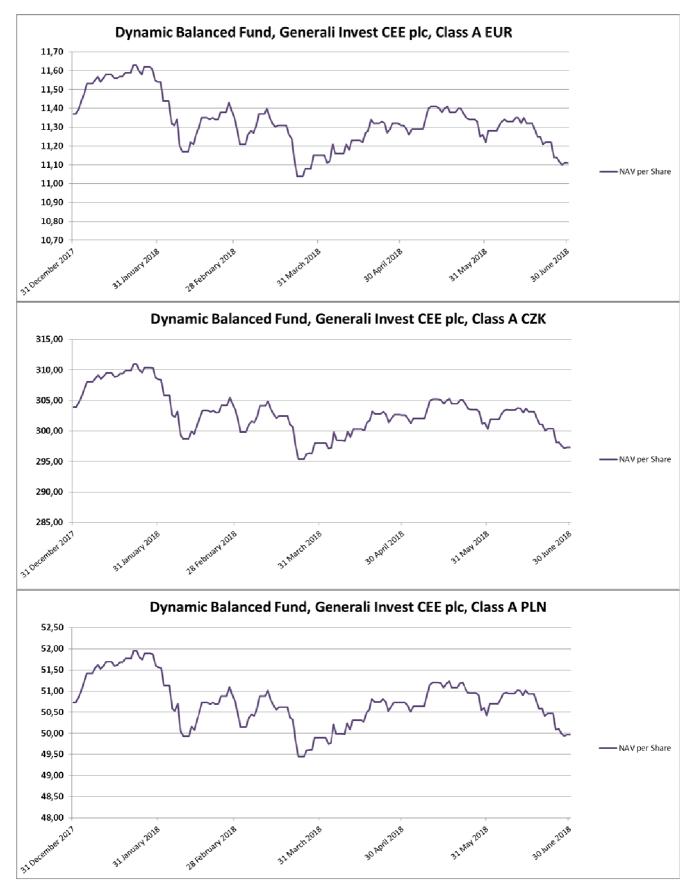

Turkish corporate bonds have been suffering from worsening developments on both economic (depreciation of Turkish lira, rising inflation, increasing macroeconomic imbalances), and political (uncertainty before presidential election, Erdogan's effort to interfere to central bank policy) fronts, which was reflected by credit rating downgrades deeper into junk category. Credit spreads of corporate bonds from other emerging market economies including Eastern Europe also widened as a combination of the Fed's tightening and US dollar appreciation led to significant outflow from emerging markets.

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Dynamic Balanced Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The Fund performed relatively well during the 1H 2018, posting only a small loss. Similarly to previous years, we have applied an active investment strategy across asset classes. Equity exposure moved in a range of 48% - 54% NAV, with an underweight position in sectors which tend to provide weak performance in period of interest rate hikes, namely utilities, REITs and consumer non-cyclicals. With regards to individual stock selection, we preferred stocks the brand value of which grows at an above-average pace and/or with relatively low valuation in comparison to sector peers. The fixed income part of the Fund portfolio was managed with the same approach as the Corporate Bond Fund, i.e. with emphasis on high yield, shorter duration emerging markets corporate and financial bonds. The individual bond selections were based mainly on fundamental analysis, with top-down-based market timing.

The future market outlook for the Fund

We expect global economic growth to remain solid, particularly in the US, where the recent fiscal impulse prolonged the economic cycle. The Fed is expected to keep tightening via both interest rate increases and balance sheet reduction to prevent an economic overheating. The rise in interest rates is expected to lead to further bear flattening of the U.S. dollar risk-free yield curve. The US equity market still profits from tax reform, resulting in strong earnings growth. The Eurozone economy is experiencing an economic slowdown triggered by a combination of trade war and political uncertainties. Therefore equity markets performance has been weak. On the positive side market multiples are relatively low compared to the US. The ECB is expected to cease its asset purchase programme by December 2018 and raise short-term rates in third quarter of 2019.

Emerging market fundamentals are expected to worsen. Recent local currency depreciation will lift inflation, which will prompt some central banks to correspondingly react and consequently to cool down economic growth. Moreover, imminent trade wars are expected to increase economic uncertainties among companies, which already have adverse effect to economic growth in some cases, similarly to the Eurozone. Equity markets multiples significantly declined, which provides room for selective stock picking.

Global fixed-income markets conditions are expected to remain mostly resulting from the Fed policy tightening. On the positive side corporate bonds across the regions still mostly profit from low default rates and also from resilient economic fundamentals in some cases (Russia, Kazakhstan, CEE). In this environment we are going to keep the average duration of the bond part of our portfolio below the long-term average. The investment strategy for the fixed-income segment will be based mainly on a selection of fundamentally strong and liquid credit names. Similarly to past years we are also going to profit from the high carry of non-investment grade credits, where higher fundamental risk will be offset by a shorter duration. With regards to the equity part of the portfolio we are going to keep a flexible tactical strategy with an aim to profit from lower correlation among individual regions, sectors and stocks. From a regional perspective we basically continue to prefer developed markets over emerging markets. With regards to individual stock selection, we continue to be overweight in "value stocks" i.e. stocks with a relatively low valuation (based on P/E, P/CF etc.) in comparison to sector peers.

MANAGER'S REPORT for the financial period ended 30 June 2018 Premium Dynamic Fund, Generali Invest CEE plc

The investment objective of the Fund How the Fund achieves its investment objective

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve long-term capital appreciation typically via investments into equities and equity-related securities. A tactical asset allocation approach helps to mitigate downside risk during adverse market cycles and entails investing in traditional asset classes, such as the equity and fixed income investments, and alternative asset classes, i.e. indirect investments in commodities and currencies.

The Fund achieves its objective by investing in varying combinations of assets such as government and corporate bonds, equities and depository receipts, securities which gain exposure to commodities, cash and ancillary liquid assets, open-ended collective schemes and derivatives.

Under normal market conditions, the Fund invests at least half of its assets in equities and equity related securities and collective investment schemes based on equities. However, the Fund is not required to allocate its investments among asset classes in any fixed proportion, nor is it limited by investment style or by the issuer's location, size, market capitalization, economic sector or rating. The relative proportions of asset classes and overall portfolio parameters may significantly change over time based upon the Investment Manager's assessment of changing market, economic, financial and political conditions.

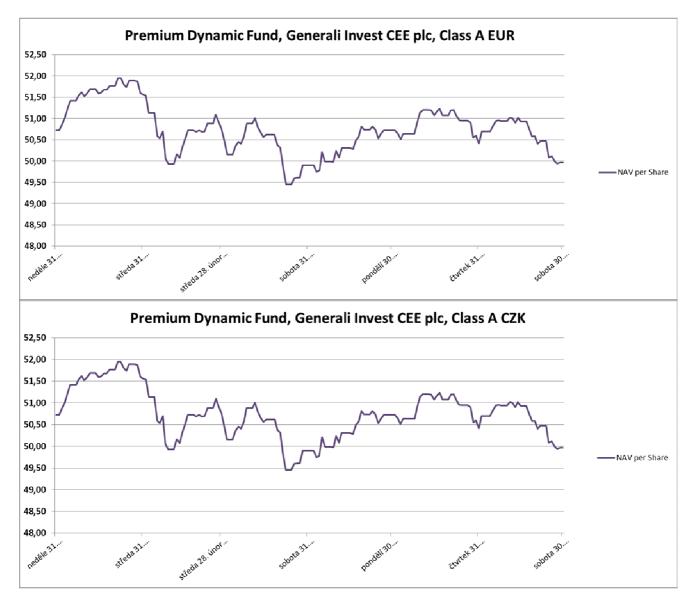

As stock market optimism among investors reached its highest levels in decades around the world in January, we let the already underweight dynamic (equity) exposure dilute even more with new clients' contributions into the Fund. While hoarding the cash, the equity exposure dropped below 70% NAV and the Fund was very well positioned for the upcoming sell-off, launched by the short-volatility flash crash at the beginning of February. However once the correction deepened, we assessed that reaction as exaggerated in the end with high probability to recover at least partially. To significantly decrease the underweight tactical position, the Fund purchased broad equity ETFs with focus on the U.S. Those investments were financed via free cash and sale of less-risky investment graded bonds with low yield-to-maturity. As a result, the equity exposure bounced back above 70% threshold in the second half of the first quarter and the bond portfolio was concentrated into more risky high-yield corporates with very attractive yield.

The portfolio was kept very broadly diversified from both a sectorial as well as a regional point of view including exposure to niche markets like Vietnam, India, Turkey, etc. and with some sectorial emphasis on real estate, biotechnology, (junior) gold miners and smart-beta UCITS ETFs. From a currency point of view, the Fund was mostly long in currency denominations of its underlyings against the euro with just partial FX-hedging of EUR/USD (cca 30% of the USD exposure being hedged) and GBP exposure almost fully (~90%) as it consisted mainly of the GBP denominated bond which was tendered with a premium to available market price at the end of May.

Due to favorable market conditions, the Fund was able to increase its exposure to mergers and acquisition strategies also (both for-stock as well as for-cash and their combination), benefiting from growing M&A activity and significant surplus of cash.

In the second quarter, the equity exposure was kept in the range of 65–75% amid timing the trading activity between local highs and bottoms. Moreover, the correlation between European stocks and their U.S. peers was the weakest in many years, whereas emerging markets were hit pretty significantly as many regions suffered from investment outflows and sell-offs (e.g. Latin America and Turkey). A bit surprisingly, despite an extraordinary attractive dividend yield across Central and Eastern European equities, very strong economies and sound fundamentals, the region was hit visibly by emerging markets weakness. The euro-denominated CECE EUR index lost almost 20% from its January highs and underperformed significantly its global peers. But overall, the Fund showed just a little volatility and decreased just very slightly year-to-date.

The future market outlook for the Fund

The outlook is influenced mainly by changes in economic potential and monetary policies. The environment of still very low risk-free rates and credit spreads justifies higher valuation multiples of equities amid the growing global economy and hopes for significant corporate profits boost (lowering taxes, fiscal impulses, a more accommodative regulatory regime, more confident consumers etc.). However the upside seems largely limited from the perspective of top-down approach especially in the U.S. and the importance of regional/sectorial selection and stock picking became the key.

2. Principal accounting policies

Significant accounting policies

The same accounting policies, presentation and methods of computation are followed in these condensed financial statements as were applied in the preparation of the Company's financial statements for the financial year ended 31st December 2017.

Accounting Standards

These financial statements are prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS"), issued by the International Accounting Standards Board ("IASB") as adopted for use in the European Union and interpretations issued by the International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee at the IASB.

Financial Derivative Instruments

The fair value of forward foreign currency exchange contracts is calculated as the difference between the contracted rate and the current forward rate that would close out the contract as at the end of the period. For each relevant Fund, gains or losses on forward foreign currency exchange contracts are included, as appropriate, on the Condensed Statement of Financial Position and are shown in the Schedule of Investments of each relevant Fund. If traded in the over-the-counter market, instruments are stated by reference to prices obtained from dealers or counterparties. All derivatives are carried in assets when amounts are receivable by the Company and in liabilities when amounts are payable by the Company. Changes in the fair values of derivatives are included in the Condensed Statement of Comprehensive Income. During the financial period the contract is open, changes in the value of the contracts are recognised as unrealised gains or losses to reflect the market value of the contract at the last day of the valuation period.

Receivables and payables under repurchase agreements and securities borrowed

When a Fund purchases a financial asset and simultaneously enters into an agreement to resell the same or a substantially similar asset at a fixed price on a future date (reverse sale and repurchase agreement), the arrangement is accounted for as a loan and receivable, and recognised in the Condensed Statements of Financial Position as a receivable from a reverse sale and repurchase agreement, and the underlying asset is not recognised in the Company's financial statements.

When a Fund sells a financial asset and simultaneously enters into an agreement to repurchase the same or a similar asset at a fixed price on a future date (sale and repurchase agreement), the arrangement is accounted for as a borrowing and recognised in the Condensed Statements of Financial Position as a payable under securities sold under agreement to repurchase, and the underlying asset continues to be recognised in the Company's financial statements.

5. Financial instrument risk

Fair value measurements

IFRS 13 establishes a fair value hierarchy for inputs used in measuring fair values. The fair value hierarchy is categorised into three levels based on the inputs as follows:

Level 1 - Valuations based on quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities;

Level 2 - Valuations based on quoted prices in markets that are not active or for which all significant inputs are observable, either directly (as prices) or indirectly (derived from prices); and

Level 3 - Valuations based on inputs that are unobservable and significant to the overall fair value measurement.

Inputs may include price information, volatility statistics, specific and broad credit data, liquidity statistics, and other factors. A financial instrument's level within the fair value hierarchy is based on the lowest level of any input that is significant to the fair value measurement. However, the determination of what constitutes "observable" requires significant judgement by the Investment Manager. The Investment Manager considers observable data to be that market data which is readily available, regularly distributed or updated, reliable and verifiable, not proprietary, and provided by independent sources that are actively involved in the relevant market. The categorisation of a financial instrument within the hierarchy is based upon the pricing transparency of the instrument and does not necessarily correspond to the Investment Manager's perceived risk of that instrument.

The following table summarises the inputs used to value the Company's assets and liabilities measured at fair value on a recurring basis as of 30 June 2018:
